Working together for children and families

Fayette County Family Resource Networks (the Network) is an organization that understands and is responsive to the needs and opportunities in our communities. The Network provides indirect services by organizing, mobilizing and coordinating a variety of programs and initiatives in our respective communities. Family Engagement

Tell about the family members on your board, their roles and time served and how they are represented including serving as officers.

Tell how their family and children are involved with the FRNs Programs, Projects and Events including any Committees, Councils, Work Groups or Support Groups that family members serve on.

Tell about the family members that are involved in the social media you use to reach out to other family or youth as well as direct mail and e-mail. You could include the numbers of people reached such as the number of families on your website, web-page or your e-mail distribution list.

Tell about the families attending the general membership meetings and how they participate.

Tell about any community learning/education/training sessions for families, and how families are involved. Tell if you are getting information from them including any assessments or other information obtained from external sources regarding families' needs such as DHHR, Schools, Churches, etc.

Tell if any organizations, groups, or teams that you partner with provide opportunities for families in the community including products, services or volunteer opportunities and how family or youth are involved.

Tell if the FRN helps mobilize a local FRC (Family Resource Center), food pantry, or other similar projects including how families are involved with those projects and the family member's roles.

Tell if you provide a meeting place for visitation or other family engagement activity, tell how families are involved.

Tell if the FRN follows any evidence-based practices or models for family engagement.

Report on how your organization engages families during this reporting period. (use the information provided above to help with your answer)

Success Stories

Do you know a personal story (narrative or account) of how a person/family benefited from the program, project or event that you assisted in the development or implementation?

Be specific about the person or family you use as your success story, except for their proper names. The impact from the story is the person and how they benefited. It's nice to have 1500 people at a stop smoking event, but the one person who stopped is the success story. Not the event. An entire family that stopped smoking is an incredible success story.

Explain how their lives changed because of the event.

Explain their reaction, things they said, and things they do to show appreciation. May pay it forward.

When you read it, if you tear up, you did well. We want to pull on those heartstrings, especially if a legislator sees it.

Report on how the lives of individual community members have improved due to the work of your organization during this reporting period. (use the information provided above to help with your answer)
